Common Questions

How do I setup my PC?

The PC arrives pre-installed with the operating system and only needs to be setup and plugged in (Mouse, Keyboard, Power Cable & Monitor).

How do I connect to my Wireless (WiFi) Network?

Your WiFi Network connection may be checked by selecting the WiFi icon in the task bar (). Refreshing the list will display the available networks. You will be prompted for the password upon the initial connection and any subsequent time the password is updated.

Do I need to activate or authenticate my copy of Windows?

No, Windows has been activated by our technicians. You will only need to reactivate should the hard drive later be reformatted.

Why is there no sound when an Audio or Video is played?

The PC does not come by default with an external or internal speaker. Headphones, Speakers or a monitor equipped with Speakers will need to be plugged into one of the computer's audio out ports.

Are there any programs other than the operating system installed?

For your convenience the system will be installed with a few select programs to get you up and running including Open Office, 7-Zip and two additional browsers (Firefox and Google Chrome).

Why am I receiving Pop-Ups to upgrade to Windows 10?

Microsoft is looking to transition from Windows 7 & 8 to their newest operating system, Windows 10. These reminders appear that an upgrade is possible each time the PC is restarted. This upgrade is a free download until July 29, 2016. Currently, however, many devices and components may not yet have drivers in Windows 10. Please check with the manufacturer of external components before upgrading.

My PC has a dual monitor card (DMS-59), how do I connect it?

PCs featuring a DMS-59 Pin video card will also come with an adapter that will allow for using extended desktop across multiple displays. The adapter will plug into the card at the back of the PC and split to 2x VGA or DVI in order to connect to your monitor(s).
